THE Isthmus Ship Railway.

That the De Lesseps project at Panama is doomed to failure there is no longer a doubt. All testimony, comes in this. For several months the work has been pursued with but a small force, and in a languid manner. The debt of his company is already nearly $200,000,000. Only a small proportion of the excavation has been executed, and almost nothing has been done towards the erection of the immense masses of roadway that will be required. No more money can be raised, and the work cannot continue. Cable despatches from Paris state that the industrial and financial situation in France is one of grave difficulty. There is no doubt, it is said, that a crisis is approaching. Moved by the spirit of speculation, the people have put "all their money into visionary undertakings. Money could not find profitable employment in the ordinary lines of industry, and it was put into all sorts of stock exchange and building operations, in which this Panama canal scheme is an example. People who had accumulated small sums in industry and economy were credulous, as such people often are, of great speculative and jokers took their money, and they have nothing to show for it but unprofitable stocks. The end of all this has been reached. Extrusion of money and collapse of credit among the French have put an end to diversionary undertakings of great magnitude.

and which proven's the Klamath wild in whose territory it lies, from approaching it. The terrain and the story will be found extremely interesting.

Acting upon a suggestion from many who have visited Crater Lake, our representative in congress has introduced a bill to set apart a considerable space of land, including the lake and its immediate surroundings, for a national public park. The land belongs to the government and only needs to be withdrawn from the latter for safe and salutary use. The proposal is a proper one in all respects. It comes from gentlemen who can have no interest in the matter other than a public one. If it should be made a public park and its natural beauty left undisturbed, Crater Lake in future years will become a great center of attraction and resort. We hope that Mr. Herkampf will be able to put his bill through.

CONDITION OF BUSINESS.

The commercial record of the past year, fully set forth in THE OREGONIAN of yesterday, shows an increase of exports and a decrease of imports. For the first time since we have come to have pretensions as a seat of commerce, the annual balance is in our favor. We are selling more than we buy, and if we had no debts to pay, would be saving money. The "hard times" are past, and as stated yesterday, business is active and all prospects are hopeful. The activity of three years ago was largely the result of extravagance and recklessness. It had not the basis of actual financial responsibility. Business was done on credit and everybody was trusted. Upon these terms there will always be

HIS SPEECHES DID IT.

John M. Francis, Late Minister to Austria
Tells why Kelley Didn't Remain Abroad.

The fact that his wife is a Jewess did not affect his case in the least.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The Tribune published the following: "John M. Francis, lately United States minister at the court of Vienna to which A. N. Kelley was appointed as successor by President Cleveland, was seen yesterday by a Tribune reporter at the house of J. C. Hawley at Yonkers. Mr. Francis withdrew from the mission on August 3, some weeks ago, owing to his refusal of the Austrian government to receive Mr. Kelley, the duties of the office having been performed by James Palmer Lee, secretary of legation and chargé d'affaires ad interim.

"Did you understand the Austrian government to base its objection to receiving Mr. Kelley either on the fact that his wife was a Jewess or on the fact that their marriage was only civilly contracted?" asked the reporter.

"I did not," replied Mr. Francis, emphatically. "Neither of those considerations were looked upon by Austria, officially, as grounds for the rejection, and it was never for a moment intended that this government should be so advised." I had long conversations with Count Kalnoky on the subject at the time the difficulty arose, and while he pointed out that a Jewess, or even a lady of proximate Semitic origin, could have no social status in Vienna, he never once hinted to me officially that that would in any way influence the judgment of the Austrian government. I know that Hebrews are not received in the aristocratic society of Austria or at least of the capital; yet I am sure the government takes no notice of this fact officially, while it is quite possible that the Jews in this country, were being 60,000 of them in New York and 20,000 in Brooklyn. The number in the big hospitals does not exceed 10,000. Rev. Mr. Morris favors the building of a college where the Jewish young men, destined for the various learned professions, would receive their classical training and at the same time be placed under conservative influences. The school of divinity would be attached to the college for the special strength merely the law may have won the day; his superior would again have been fit to make his fortune in his own medium. But after a struggle of two hours he managed cleverly to dislodge the bottle of carbolic acid down the reptile's throat, the grip of which he had never relaxed. The boy had evidently been accustomed to the drink—say, it evidently, because he was 12 years old and 12 A. M.
